

A GREAT ICE GORGE.

An Immense Gorge of Ice in the Susquehanna River Opposite Port Deposit, Md.

The Greater Portion of the Town Under Three Feet of Water—People Fleeing for Their Lives.

PORT DEPOSIT, Md., Jan. 28.—The ice in the Susquehanna north of Port Deposit began breaking up at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon and piling up opposite this place, which forced the water back on the town in a frightful manner. In thirty minutes the water had attained a depth of from five to six feet on Main street, running with a swift current, carrying with it ice, fences, lumber and debris generally. All the residences on the lower side of Main street, with a few exceptions, were flooded with from three to five feet of water on the first floor. Not more than three or four families living on that side remained in their houses last night. At all hours during the night boats could be seen rowing up and down Main street moving people as the water invaded their homes. No possible conception can be formed of the loss and destruction of last night's flood. At daybreak this morning the flood had subsided, but at 7 o'clock it began to rise again slowly, reaching the highest point at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and at 2:30 there was a slight movement in the ice and the water rose several feet, doing a large amount of damage to light structures. An unsuccessful attempt was made to break the ice gorge with dynamite, but after some hours' hard work the scheme was abandoned. Reports from up the river are that heavy ice is coming down in immense quantities. That the worst is not yet over is the general supposition and should the gorge opposite this place continue to resist the accumulating pressure from above, the final result cannot be conjectured, and the suspense is fearful. Trains on the Columbus and Port Deposit Railway cannot approach nearer than a mile on either side of the town, as the track is covered with ice. Watchmen will be on the lookout all night to give warning in case there is any further rise in the river. Reports from McCall's Ferry, Pa., twenty-three miles north of here, and Coloma, Md., four miles north, advise that the ice is passing through very rapidly and the water is rising. It is impossible to conjecture how it will terminate at Port Deposit. The heavy ice in the mouth of the river shows no evidence of breaking, while the mass of ice from above continues to pour in and accumulate here. The hills back of Port Deposit are thronged with sightseers from the country and adjoining towns.

Notes from Montague.

MONTAGUE, TEX., Jan. 28.—Last night some unknown party, not having the fear of God before his eyes and a proper respect for the property of others, and being a little hungry, entered through the back window of J. E. Dunning's grocery store and ejected therefrom 100 pounds of flour and some coffee, and perhaps other articles which have not yet been discovered. There is no clue to the party. The prospects for another rain are good. The weather is cloudy and warm. Farmers report wheat doing as well as could be.

A SPANISH EXPLORER.

The First European to Land a Party Through Texas.

Written for the Gazette.

The first European to make extensive explorations in Texas was Alvar Nunez, who has left a record of his wanderings which appeared in Spain in 1537, and which has been used to advantage by H. H. Bancroft in his History of the North Mexican States and Texas. He was one of the survivors of a party of Spaniards numbering 240 men, besides the officers, who for six weeks sailed in a frail bark, tossed, and suffering terribly from thirst, hunger, exposure and attacks from wild Indians, until early in November, 1527, they finally stranded on an island off the coast of Texas. Emaciated and weak, the naked survivors were cast up by the waves to fall into the hands of the savages.

A few of the strongest survivors were sent to the main land by their fellows with orders to seek help from the nearest Spaniards. The remainder were soon reduced from eighty to fifteen by famine and pestilence, and these few were enslaved by the Indians and soon became scattered from one another. Alvar Nunez remained on the island a captive for more than a year, and was forced by his harsh masters to dig roots as food from under the water. After a time, however, he was allowed greater liberty and bettered his condition by trading with the natives on the mainland, traveling, naked as he was, over Texas for many leagues of territory, and exchanging shells and various articles used on the coast for skins and other land products. Thus, for six years, he involuntarily made his home at Malhado island, for thus he named the place of his misfortune.

After these years of captivity he finally succeeded in escaping from his captors with Oviedo, the only other white survivor remaining on the island. He went down the coast, passing four large rivers and finally entered a bay which he supposed was the Espiritu Santo, discovered in 1519. He soon fell in with three other persons belonging to the original party, and these four were the only ones who were known to have survived of the 300 that had sailed from Florida.

Alvar Nunez and his party, having learned through terrible hardship to accommodate themselves to life in the wilderness, made the first extensive explorations in Texas and in the adjoining country that is known to have been made by Europeans. His account of their wanderings was republished a number of times in Spain, under a variety of titles, and was also translated into Italian, French and English. Another narrative exists in the report given by the party to the audiencia in Mexico, in 1536. Although both statements bear the evident imprint of the fullest good faith they were written from memory and contain many inaccuracies. They agree in essentials, however, in regard to the adventures of the party, but there is a wide difference in dates, directions and distances. These reports are fragmentary and ever contradictory, but they throw a priceless light on the condition of Texas then.

As the Spaniards do not speak of crossing the Mississippi river, as they certainly would had they noticed it, Malhado island must, therefore, have been to the westward of that stream. Their location of the bay of Espiritu Santo is fixed by certain great sand hills, which Oviedo mentions as prominent landmarks, and at the present day the United States coast survey speaks of the sand mounds as rising from an almost level prairie region at the bay which now bears the name of Espiritu Santo. This from the internal evidence of those early narratives that either this bay or San Antonio has the best claim of being the initial point from which explorations began into the Texan territory. The journey of these pioneer explorers began in the summer of 1527, when Nunez and Oviedo took advantage of their master's annual visit to the interior, to procure a supply of prickly pears for food, to make their escape.

DALLAS.

Henry Schull Again—Divorced and Married Instantly—The Senatorial Race.

DALLAS, TEX., Jan. 28.—Henry Schull, the Jewish ex-Rabbi, is out of town. He failed to state when he would return. Schull has at various times within the past three or four years been charged with embezzlement and fraud, but each time managed to escape conviction and punishment. Being a man of fine appearance, learned and talented, it has been easy for him to maintain the respect of the public, notwithstanding his many questionable transactions. But his absence at this juncture has caused a general opinion that he is a slick rascal.

County court is taking a recess to-day, Judge Bowen being called to Austin by the legislative committee of the present Legislature to discuss the question of working short term convicts on county roads. The experiment has been tried in Dallas county and proved satisfactory.

In the District court divorce was granted to Eureka Wells from Houston Wells. The trial developed a case of extraordinary ill-treatment and neglect. Mrs. Wells proved that her husband had never provided the commonest necessities, and that she had been compelled to work in the cotton field barefooted. The custody of the only child was given to Mrs. Wells, permission being given the husband to see it occasionally. As soon as the divorce decree was pronounced, Mrs. Wells fell into the arms of Mr. James A. Fugitt and at once became his wife. The reporter could not learn whether Mr. Wells had provided himself with a new wife.

F. J. Merryfield, a prominent citizen of Dallas county, was adjudged insane and taken by Sheriff Lewis to the asylum at Terrell to-day.

Chief Kahn, in response to the attacks made on him by the underwriters, has demanded a full investigation at the hands of the City Council, and he is in session with a committee to-night. Public opinion generally exonerates him.

The senatorial tie-up at Austin has caused Dallas to hold her breath in the hope of a dark horse. Wellborn, Gibbs, Shepherd, are the whisperings. Mr. Shepherd is pursuing the even tenor of his way and exercises no uneasiness. It is hoped that if Mr. Wellborn's chances should grow into a probability, that Mr. Gibbs will at least keep quiet.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

A Railroad Man Takes Morphine by Accident but is Saved.

WICHITA FALLS, TEX., Jan. 28.—Mr. William Newman, connected with the bridge corps of the Fort Worth and Denver Railway (their train having been on our late siding for some days working in the vicinity) was taken suddenly ill just after supper the night of the 25th and Dr. O. Eastland, the company's surgeon, was hastily summoned and found him suffering from morphine poisoning, the characteristic effect of the drug having already asserted itself to an alarming extent. Emetics were freely and efficiently employed, and hypodermic medicines used to counteract the drug already absorbed by the stomach, and at midnight the sufferer was tided over the worst and was free from immediate danger.

The exact manner in which he got the morphine is not known, but it is supposed that it had been left by mistake in the cup from which Mr. Newman drank coffee at supper in the boarding car.

Mr. Newman had been married only a few weeks and his wife was prostrated with grief while he suffered, but was equally happy when he passed from danger.

Why will you suffer with those terrible bilious headaches, when Morris' Cascadia never fails to drive them away?

The Chi-Kawwas Dissatisfied.

Special to the Gazette.

TAHLEQUAH, I. T., Jan. 28.—The Chickasaws are protesting against the prices allowed for railroad right of way through their country by the appraisers. The government is thinking of the advisability of calling an extra session of the Legislature to attend to the matter in the way of providing to bring suits in the United States court against the railroads. It is pretty generally understood that an extra session will soon be called.

Will Resume Operations.

WILKESBARRE, PA., Jan. 28.—The Wilkesbarre Record is authorized to announce that all the collieries of the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal Company will resume operations on Saturday at their full capacity. This will include the collieries of Red Ash Coal Company. This step is made possible by reason of the company having succeeded in overcoming the labor difficulties at Port Johnson. The vast quantity of coal that is sidetracked in this region will be forwarded to Port Johnson to-morrow as fast as it can be taken over the railroads.

GAINESVILLE.

A Printer Boy Injured—Charged with Cattle Theft.

SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.

GAINESVILLE, TEX., Jan. 28.—Yesterday afternoon Dick Cearnall, the printer boy of the Hesperian, while walking on the rear porch of the Lindsay house, had the misfortune to stumble and fall to the floor. His hip was severely cut; but he sustained no serious injuries.

Part of the preliminary trial of G. Mead, a butcher in this city, who was arrested a few days since on the charge of cow theft, was gone through with yesterday. The hearing of the rest of the testimony was put off till Monday on account of the absence of some of the state's witnesses.

HELD FOR MURDER.

A Teamster Killed and Cremated by His Companions—The Fences Caught.

SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.

VINITA, I. T., Jan. 28.—At Echo, a postoffice twenty miles east of here, on Wednesday evening two men, one named Thompson, were arrested by a United States deputy marshal for the murder of a man named Lord on the Paris extension of the Frisco Railroad near Fort Smith. On the way home the men arrested killed their companion and burned his remains. The team had been traded off for another, but the wagon and bedding was brought back and speedily recognized by the dead man's wife. A portion of a man's jawbone was found among the ashes where the body had been burned.

J. Henson's Federal Court Building.

SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.

JEFFERSON, TEX., Jan. 28.—At a large, enthusiastic mass-meeting of citizens held here to-day, resolutions offsetting Texas laws regarding the Federal court building were unanimously adopted and sent to President Cleveland to-night's mail.

The Yaqui Indians Subdued.

NOGALES, A. T., Jan. 28.—The Mexican gunboat Democrat arrived at Nogales to-day with Cajeme, chief of the Yaquis, as prisoner. This ends the war between the Yaquis and the Mexicans, which has existed two years. It is believed that Cajeme named his own terms.

California Excursionists.

SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.

BIG SPRINGS, TEX., Jan. 28.—The California excursion passed here to-day in two trains, having on board 350 people. They were in charge of John C. Lewis, the veteran emigration agent, and all seemed highly pleased with Western Texas.

ROACH REMEMBERED HIM.

Another Instance of the Great Shipbuilder's Kindness of Heart.

Milwaukee Sentinel.

An intimate friend of John Roach told this of him at the time of his assignment: "At twenty-two he had a wife and two children. At this time he was a slight slip of a fellow, and did not weigh much over 120 pounds. He became ill and was confined to his bed until all of his moderate savings were gone. One night, when there was scarcely a penny in the house, the physician came to see him, and after examining him said: 'John Roach, you should know the truth. You must die. Your lungs are hopelessly affected. I tell you this so that if you can make any provision for your wife and children you will yet have time.' Roach was in despair. He saw absolutely no hope for himself in the future. He did not fear death, but the thought of leaving his wife and children to a destitute, poverty-stricken life pierced him to the heart. He prayed all night for his deliverance. In the night a vision came to him. It seemed as if he were looking directly into heaven, and from that abode of happiness came a promise to him that he would live. The next day a fellow workman came in to see him. The workman was going west.

"He came to see John Roach, he thought, for the last time. He bent over him and kissed him good bye before he went away. After his departure John Roach found that he had left under his pillow five weeks' wages in the very envelope. In the night a vision came to him. It seemed as if he were looking directly into heaven, and from that abode of happiness came a promise to him that he would live. The next day a fellow workman came in to see him. The workman was going west.

DR. CURTIS.

The Afflicted of North Texas Continue to Throng His Rooms.

And in Deference to Their Wishes He Consents to Remain at Grand Windsor Hotel, Dallas, till Feb. 21.

Dr. J. S. Curtis, the distinguished specialist, who has been at the Grand Windsor Hotel for the past four weeks, has met with an overwhelming success since the first opening of his rooms in Dallas. It would be unduly to state the average of cures to know the large number of cases existing in our community of the diseases comprised in the limited list to which the Doctor devotes his whole time and attention. His rooms have been crowded every day, sometimes as many as fifty new cases presenting themselves in a single day.

The Doctor's practice has by no means been confined to Dallas or its immediate surroundings. Cases have presented themselves from remote parts of the state, and in many cases leading citizens of Paris, Tyler, Colorado City, McKinney, Henrietta, Palo Pinto, West of Waxahatchie, Alvarado, Hillsboro, Cleburne, Belton, Texarkana, Marshall, Longview and Palestine have been glad to avail themselves of his professional services.

It is a well-known fact that skill and knowledge in the practice of surgery can only be acquired by special attention to the diseases which may be relieved in a manner. Dr. Curtis has for many years devoted himself to his practice as a specialist in the following classes of cases, and the skill he has acquired by constant practice has become almost marvelous.

He cures cross eyes and straightens the worst cases in one minute. In the case of Pterygium, a film that grows over the eyeball is removed and positively will not grow again. His success in cases of cataract has been phenomenal, and in many cases persons who have been blind for years have had the price of a boom of light restored. He is equally successful in the cure of granulated lids and inflammation of all parts of the delicate mechanism of the eye. All chronic diseases of the eye, no matter of how long standing, are positively cured by his treatment. Cataract, which usually baffles the skill of the best physicians, and which is by many considered incurable in this climate, is one of his specialties in which he is phenomenally successful. He has positively cured many of the worst cases of long standing. Deafness, caused from Catarrh or other causes, is relieved at once.

Piles and Fleashe give relief in one treatment without the use of knife, caustic or ligament. His skill in the removal of Tumors from any part of the body is attested by hundreds of relieved patients. He is equally successful in the cure of old ulcers, cancer, etc., and the cases are removed in every case by local and constitutional treatment.

Dr. Curtis' treatment of diseases of women has been universally successful. The hundreds of complicated cases arising in this class of cases are such that the ordinary practitioner has either the time or facilities to look up, or can only fail to cure.

In connection with the above statements it is well to recall that Dr. Curtis offers $100 reward to any one who will prove as of his published testimonials or press notices untrue. He will also reward for themselves and some from the grateful hearts of those who have felt his skill and have been relieved.

Further particulars will be furnished on application in person or by mail to Dr. J. S. Curtis' office, Room 64, Grand Windsor Hotel, Dallas, Tex.

HOME TESTIMONY.

I have been under Dr. Curtis' treatment for cataract for two weeks and have been completely cured. W. W. MAXWELL, Stenographer Shepard & Miller.

DALLAS, TEX., Jan. 6, 1887.—This is to certify that I have been under treatment of Dr. Curtis several days for cataract, and I can say that I feel much improved and believe that in a short time I will be entirely cured. J. W. COOK, Railway Mail Service. Runs between Dallas and Texarkana.

GRAND WINDSOR HOTEL, Dallas, Tex., Jan. 7, 1887.—I have suffered with cataract for the past seven years. During that time I have vainly tried to get relief. Not less than fifteen of the best physicians of this country, France and Germany have done their best, while I continued to get worse. On December 29 I placed myself under Dr. Curtis' treatment, and I am pleased to say that I have improved from the first beyond my expectations. He has succeeded in removing all inflammation and discharges from the eye. I feel like a different person. I am sure that if those suffering as I have could realize the relief afforded by Dr. Curtis' treatment they would not hesitate for a moment. S. MORSEBERRY, 1126 Ross ave.

DALLAS, TEX., Jan. 21.—This is to certify that Dr. J. S. Curtis straightened my left eye's cross-eyes in a few moments. He is ten years old and his eyes had been crossed from birth. I am cheerfully recomended him to the public, who need work of that kind so much. LAFAYETTE SHERRY, Chandler, Tex.

DALLAS, TEX., Jan. 24, 1887.—I have been suffering with cataract for twenty years, spent several hundred dollars in New Orleans and other cities for treatment, but received no relief until I placed myself under Dr. Curtis' treatment. January 18, to-day the granulations are entirely gone and my eyes feel like new ones. They are free from pain, and I can see as well as ever. I would not take ten times what I paid Dr. Curtis for what he has done for me. WILLIS FRYMAN, Winoona, Tex.

DALLAS, Jan. 24, 1887.—This is to certify that my little boy, who is eight years old, has suffered from cataract for a year and a half, his whole head was covered with crusts or scabs, his body was a mass of sores. I tried several physicians, but received no benefit until I had him treated by Dr. Curtis. He is now sound and well. J. P. BRANUM, Wheatland, Tex.
